Dear Friends In Christ-

This weekend, we welcome Fr. Gabriel Landis, OSB from St. Benedict Abbey in Atchison, Kansas. In the Book of Deuteronomy, Moses tells the Israelite people that the Commandments of God are near to the people to whom they have been given. They are not off in a distant place, nor are they incomprehensible, to practice them is right in front of them. Many times, when we speak to God, we can include ourselves in the larger crowd. It is a temptation to think the words of Sacred Scripture apply to all of us generally, but not to "me" in particular. When we hear the words of Moses, the Prophets, or the Lord Jesus in the Gospel itself, do they echo within our own hearts or they really for someone else?

When Jesus recalls the story of the Good Samaritan, we learn how the commandments are perfected by an overabundance of goodness. This is the concept of mercy. Mercy is an oft-used term today that has little to do with the actual concept of mercy which is clearly delineated in the story of the Good Samaritan. The Samaritan people were considered unclean ritualistically and having contact with them could make one unclean. Even open wounds or fluid from a wound could make someone "unclean." Here, we see that justice would've dictated that the Samaritan be charitable or help where he could out of communitive justice to one's neighbor. It wouldn't have necessarily meant that the Samaritan himself would have to bandage the wounds. He could've gotten help. Instead, he goes well beyond simply providing for his needs, he even volunteers to pay out an overabundance should the injured man's stay at the inn require more. This is mercy. An overabundance of goodness that we do not necessarily deserve. God is perfectly just and merciful. His overflowing goodness dictates that He gives us more than we deserve. When we hope in God, we can falter in two ways—either believing that there is no way we can be saved, so why try. This is a false belief of God's justice. Why would God treat us unjustly? It is against His nature. Or, we can presume. "No matter what I do, God is bound to be merciful." Either way shows a loss of hope. Rather, the virtue is in the mean. The Good Samaritan shows us how God is—we do not deserve to be picked up from where we were, yet, he pours wine and oil on us and gives us another chance. Let us go rejoicing to the Temple of God to give thanks for His mercy.

Please plan on attending our special St. Ann Day Mass on Sunday, July 24th at 2:00PM with procession. Our parish picnic will start at 4:00pm! Live music, fun, fellowship, and games for kids!

-Fr. Schneider

CATHOLIC MONTH OF JULY

VIRTUE: SIMPLICITY

The office of simplicity is to make us go straight to God, without regard to human respect or our own interests. It leads us to tell things candidly and just as they exist in our hearts. It leads us to act simply, without admixture of hypocrisy and artifice—and, finally, keeps us at a distance from every kind of deceit and double-dealing.

-ST. VINCENT DE PAUL

DEVOTION: LITANY OF PRECIOUS BLOOD CLOSING PRAYER

Almighty, and everlasting God, Who hast appointed Thine only-begotten Son to be the Redeemer of the world, and hast been pleased to be reconciled unto us by His Blood, grant us, we beseech Thee, so to venerate with solemn worship the price of our salvation, that the power thereof may here on earth keep us from all things hurtful, and the fruit of the same may gladden us forever hereafter in heaven. Through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.
